The judge watches Channel's movement.

The judge examines Channel to determine how well he meets the standard of his breed.

Enough about Channel. Look who the next grand champion will be.

Tukka has already started her winning streak. She was entered in three shows last week. There was stiff competition for two of the three days but Tukka showed like a pro and won a few ribbons!

Heads and Tails

March 2nd marks Theodore Geisel's 113th birthday, AKA Dr. Seuss! Read Across America is celebrating its 20th year! What does this have to do with dogs? Well, there are some great reading programs that involve dogs! The first program is R.E.A.D.; reading education assistance dogs. These dogs are trained similarly to therapy dogs. The dogs and their trainers go to schools and libraries and work with struggling readers. Oftentimes when children struggle with reading, they are shy about reading out loud. Reading out loud is a key tool in aiding comprehension and word skills. When a child reads to a dog, they are not judged, and therefore, will be more willing to try. You can learn more about this program here: http://www.therapyanimals.org/Read_FAQ.html

A local program at Dan Cosgrove Animal Shelter is pairing readers with shelter animals. This is open to anyone who reads, and you can read to any animal. This program aims to help shelter animals feel loved. To have a person read to them is soothing and can calm an anxious animal down. It can be therapeutic to the reader as well. This program recently started and is on Thursday nights from 6:00-6:45 PM. If you are interested, you can contact Chris via email at cbarbaro@Branford-ct.gov. Two delightful books for the pre-K to first/second grade set are Pug Meets Pig by Sue Lowell Gallion, illustrated by Joyce Wan and A Greyhound A Groundhog by Emily Jenkins, illustrated by Chris Appelhans. Pug meets Pig is about a pampered pug whose world turns upside down when Pig comes to stay. It's a sweet book about learning to share and being helpful. A Greyhound A Groundhog is meant to be read aloud and it is all about play. The illustrations are wonderful too. Both books are great for emergent readers.

Have you heard about Mary and Secret? Mary is a 16 year old from Washington and Secret is her 2 year old Australian Shepherd. Mary has taught Secret many things. In honor of St. Patrick's Day, here is a video of Mary and Secret Irish step dancing.
